

Be healthy...stay healthy

An electro-acupuncture treatment can have these goals.

1. Overcome health disorders and be healthy again

With the assistance of electro-acupuncture sources of health problems can be discovered and treated. Sources of health problems are often viruses, bacteria, moulds and parasites. Environmental substances, for example insecticides, colouring agent, dy color, medicin and/ or amalgam can also be sources of health disorders. Other kinds of causes are emotional rollercoasters and being exposed to radiation of electric machines. Often, the sources that made people ill were encountered in the past and do not exist anymore, but people still use medication to treat the symptoms. Electro-acupuncture can restore the balance, which makes the symptoms less or disappear at all. Because of this medicines aren't needed anymore or a lot less than before.

2. Positive influences of chronic diseases

Chronic diseases like Diabetes or Rheumatoid Arthritis are in most cases not curable with electro-acupuncture. However, the treatment can have a positive influence on the chronic disease and make it more bearable. As a consequence patients feel more energetic.

3. Stay healthy

People who feel healthy want to stay healthy in the future too. Electro-acupuncture can try to spot disorders in an early state, before you feel ill and treat them right away. So, treatments can also prevent becoming ill or having health problems in the future. Therefore it is recommended to make an appointment once a year or period to discover and treat potential health disorders preventively.

Looking for disorders

In the first appointment the therapist will ask questions about the health problems you are experiencing and the medicines /supplements you are taking. After this the therapist measures the important body functions using testtubes. Information is then gathered about how organs, like kidneys, liver and the colon are functioning, together with how muscles, nerves and mucous membranes function. The measurement also determines influences from the environment like viruses, chemical products and electromagnetic radiation on the body. The therapist also measures the hormonal condition, energy levels, immune system and a shortage of minerals/ vitamins. In order to measure, the therapist makes a closed circle between the patient and the acupuncture-machine. This means the patient holds a hand-electrode and the therapist has an measuring-electrode that touches the fingers and toes of the patient (painless).

The therapist systematically measures all body functions that each have their own value. The indicator on the acupuncture-machine tells the therapist if a body function is in disorder. The therapist also asks questions to discover why this function is disordered. Finally, the therapist explains the patient why he or she experiences certain health problems.

Recovery of the natural balance

When the source of health problems is known, the next step is reducing or getting rid of the source of certain disorders. Therefore the therapist activates the natural mechanism of our body. Reommended products can be homeopatic and/or orthomolecular solutions. By adding the product that leads to recovery within the closed circle, the therapist is able to measure what will be the effect on the disorder and the body. He/she can also determine the right dose and whether the patient's body is able to tolerate the product. The result is that you only get the advice for products that have a positive effect on your recovery. You will receive other advice that improves your health as well. For example, advice about your diet. The treatment almost always ends with RATHERA-therapy, which is a therapy based on vibrations. In this way some electromagnetic frequenties of medicines are added into the body. This is the first step to recovery!

For Example

Health problems can have a lot of different sources. In electro-acupuncture these can be discovered and treated.

Here are a few examples of sources and their symptoms.

- A kidney disorder can cause fears, phobia or hearing problems.
- A slumbering virus combined with a liver- or spleen disorder can lead to chronic fatigue syndrome.
- An earlier food poisoning, swallowing dirty water or a neglected flu can cause chronic colon disorders, skin disorders and allergies.
- Liver- and gall bladder disorders can cause the following symptoms: colon disorders, nausea, eye disorders, shoulder problems, muscle-aches and waking up between 01 AM and 03 AM.

Costs

The appointments take between 40–60 minutes, sometimes longer if necessary. The costs per appointment are €97.50. Payment needs to be received in cash. The next appointment will be 4–6 weeks later. Often, 2–4 appointments are needed, but this depends on the seriousness of the health problems. The costs for the homeopathic and orthomolecular products are not included, you will receive a recommendation for these products.

Electro-acupuncture

Electro-acupuncture is a safe and painless way to overcome and prevent health problems. The treatment is based on knowledge of homeopathy, acupuncture and Western/mainstream medicine and is suited for adults, children and babies of all ages. Treatment is useful when the body itself is not capable (anymore) to overcome the health problems. The therapist can, with assistance of electro-acupuncture, measure which disturbance(s) is/ are present in the body. Thereafter the cause of the disturbance is treated, not the symptoms of the disturbance. The ultimate goal is to restore balance between body and mind. All health problems can be treated by electro-acupuncture, for example: chronic fatigue syndrome, muscle- and joint problems, allergies, headaches, colon disorders, skin disorders, hormonal disorders and emotional disorders such as fears and depressions. In case of health problems it is always recommended to consult a doctor and/or specialist first.
